lie back upon her pillow and break out in praise to God. When spoken to about her severe suffering she would reply, "Oh! no; I do not suffer much—I am happy." On one occasion she said, "I have now been here nine weeks, but they have been happy weeks. I love to praise God for his goodness to me." Again, "My Saviour suffered a great deal more than I do." When told she was dying, and asked if she was afraid to die, she answered with a heavenly smile, such as her friends had never seen on her countenance before, "Oh! no, no; I long to go—I long to be with the Saviour."—Ib.
